Registered Student Organizations Handbook

The Role of Registered Student Organizations

Co-curricular programs and organizations provide opportunities for students to develop friendships, learn new skills and practice leadership and group development skills. There are more than 150 registered student organizations (RSOs) representing Pittsburg State University.

Operating on the basis of voluntary participation and self-government, RSOs are an integral part of PSU's community.

Definition of Student Organizations

A registered student organization (RSO) is defined as a group consisting of at least 100% students. Members must be students, as defined by Article 3 of the Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities, however, the president, chairperson, or chief officer must be a full-time student (at least 12 hours undergraduate or 6 hours graduate). If membership is open to persons outside of the college campus community, all officers must be students. Only those organizations registered with the Campus Activities Center are considered to be a RSO.

Organizations may be established within the University for any legal purpose whether the aims are religious, political, educational, economic, or social. Affiliation or disaffiliation with an extramural organization shall not disqualify the University-based branch or chapter from University privileges. As a general rule, membership in all University related organizations shall be open to any student. A student may not be denied the rights of access to and participation in any University-sponsored or University-approved activity because of race, sex, or religion and such other basis as are current in the University Affirmative Action statement.

Conditions for Registration of Student Organizations

1. The established policy of the Board of Regents of the State of Kansas for Student Organizations and Activities prohibits discrimination on the basis of age, race, color, religion, gender, marital status, national origin, physical handicap or disability, status as a Vietnam Era Veteran, sexual orientation or other factors that cannot be lawfully considered, within the state universities. All fraternal and campus related organizations shall follow this policy in the selection of their members, except the prohibition against sex discrimination shall not apply to social fraternities or sororities which are excluded from the application of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 (20 U.S.C. Sec. 1681 et seq.). In addition, in accordance with K.S.A. 2016 Supp. 60-5312, this policy does not prohibit a student organization that is organized around shared religious beliefs from requiring leaders or members to adhere to the organization's sincerely held religious beliefs, comply with the organization's sincerely held religious beliefs, comply with the organization's sincere religious standards of conduct, and be committed to furthering the organization's religious missions, beliefs, observance requirements and standards of conduct as defined by the organization or the religion on which the association is based.
2. The right of organizations to establish standards for membership is acknowledged, provided that all students are afforded equal opportunity meet those standards. Just as all students have the right to choose those with whom they would associate on the campus, an organization shall have the right to select its members subject to these principles. Nothing in this policy shall be interpreted as imposing a requirement which would violate the principle of selection on the basis of individual merit.

3. Registration will not be granted to any organization, whether national or local in origin, whose stated purpose, intent, or likely consequence of activities is anarchistic, subversive, or disruptive to University activities.
4. Student organizations at Pittsburg State University are open only to PSU students, and all members should be on the organization's Gorilla Engage page.
5. Officers of organizations must have earned a minimum of a 2.0 GPA during the semester preceding their election to office and for the semester(s) during their term of office.
6. Organizations must register annually with the University through Gorilla Engage.
7. All organizations recognized by Pittsburg State University must abide by the policies contained in the Student Organization Handbook, the Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities, and all local, state, and federal laws.
8. The organization shall be free from control by any other non-student individual or organization. Alumni and affiliate/associate members should not be granted voting privileges nor can they hold executive officer positions. To preserve the governing integrity of a student organization, these privileges can only be vested in currently enrolled students.
9. Organization registration does not imply University approval of either the organization or its activities.

Student Organization Accounts

Any student organization may have an on-campus student organizational account free of charge at PSU. This is similar to a checking account in nature but the checkbook is held by PSU. Student organizations are NOT allowed to use PSU's Federal tax identification number (EIN) or exemption status under any circumstances. Inquiries are made by PSU to the area banks to ensure any existing off-campus bank accounts are not using PSU's name or Federal tax identification number. PSU strongly recommends that all student organizations use an on-campus account to process all revenues and expenses. These accounts allow for transparency of operations, secure handling of funds and records, and hassle free solutions for the changing of officers each academic year. All student organizations using off-campus bank accounts are responsible for following all applicable State and Federal laws including those relating to sales tax.

To apply for a student organizational account the organization's faculty advisor must make a written request to the Asst. Controller for Business Services (Rachel Cameron, 110 Russ Hall, rcameron@pittstate.edu) giving the organization's name and purpose.

Once the account has been created, a cost center number will be provided to the faculty advisor. Keep this for future reference as this cost center number is necessary for the expending and depositing of funds.

To expend funds from the account:

- A Pay Vendor Form needs to be filled out and submitted for payment with all pertinent information including who is to be paid, why, and how much. Supporting documentation is required, such as an invoice or itemized receipt.
- The faculty advisor's signature must be on the request authorizing the payment to be made.
- To make a payment to the faculty advisor from an organization's account a student officer must also authorize the payment by signing the request form and noting their position within the organization.
- Please note on the request if we are to mail the check or if it is to be picked up. If the check is to be picked up a phone contact needs to be written on the payment request.
- A completed W-9 is required to set up any individual or company as a new supplier. New suppliers take approximately 3 days to be set up and approved. (This is in addition to the processing time for checks.)
- Checks take approximately 2 days to process so please allow time for the completion of this process. In case of emergencies contact the Asst. Controller for Business Services @ Ext. 4150 or rcameron@pittstate.edu.
- Student organizations are NOT exempt from paying sales tax on purchases. All payment requests will be reviewed and if necessary adjusted for the applicable sales tax. Please contact the Business Office with any questions.

To deposit funds to your account:

- A deposit form with the money to be deposited needs to be taken to the Cashiers and Student Accounts Office in Horace Mann. Your organizational account number needs to be on the form.
- Any applicable sales tax will be calculated when completing your deposit and the University will file this with the Kansas Department of Revenue for the organization. Sales Tax will be applicable for most sales to consumers. This may also include fundraising activities. For more sales tax information contact the Asst. Controller of Cashiers and Student Accounts at ext. 4153 or dhartsho@pittstate.edu.
- An electronic notification will be emailed to the faculty advisor for the receipted funds.

Various reports are available through GUS Cloud to help maintain this account. For information regarding account balances and transaction details, please contact the faculty advisor or the Business Office.

Student Organization Safekeeping Account Dormant Transaction Policy

On or about July 1 of each year, Campus Activities will review the transaction records of each Student Organization Safekeeping Account. Any account in which no transactions have occurred during the three previous fiscal years, the following actions will be implemented.

Efforts will be made to reconnect the account with the organization, using past advisor contact information to determine if the organization is still operational. If the organization is found to no longer be active on campus, depending on original source of funding the following actions will be taken

1. If funding appears to have originated from SGA's Allocations process, the funds will be returned to the Allocations account.
2. If funding does not appear to have resulted from Allocations, Campus Activities staff will determine if another student organization exists with a similar purpose and transfer the existing funds to that organization for their use.
3. If no organization with a similar purpose exists, the funding will be transferred to a general holding account administered by the Campus Activities Center Associate Director with the funds to be used to benefit general programs or leadership development activities implemented by Campus Activities.

SGA Allocation for Student Organizations

Any student organization who has applied and been awarded Allocations from SGA must go through the following to actually receive allocations:

1. Allocations are paid on a reimbursement basis only. Receipts for the qualifying expenses must be turned into SGA attached to the appropriate form giving the organization's name, the organization's on-campus account number or valid tax id no., an explanation of the activity performed, and the total value of the receipts attached. This should be turned into the SGA office as soon as possible in accordance with announced SGA deadlines. The student organization MUST keep a copy of the form and qualifying receipts for their records.
2. Once SGA has reviewed the documentation including receipts they will issue a payment request to the Business Office. This request will include the organization's name, on-campus account no. or tax id no., and the amount of allocations approved to be paid. If the organization has a valid tax id no. a check will be issued and returned by Topeka for the organization to pick-up in the Business Office. If the organization has an on-campus account it will be automatically deposited into their account once the money has been received from Topeka. The organization's faculty advisor will be notified by electronic notification of this deposit.
3. All organizations with an on-campus account may then turn in a request signed by their faculty advisor with receipts to the Business Office to reimburse the individual(s) who initially paid the expenses. Account balances will be checked to verify there are funds available prior to making these reimbursements.
4. No allocations will be paid out to a student organization without an on-campus account unless the organization can submit IRS documentation showing their organization's name and assigned Federal tax identification number. Student organizations using the tax identification number of a parent organization must submit the IRS documentation with a letter from the parent organization giving permission for the use of their tax identification number by the student chapter.

Organization Mailbox Policies

Use the organizational mailbox assigned to your organization. Use the address and box number for all mail, on-campus and off-campus, as well as for groups requesting your address.

- You MUST check your mailbox weekly. In addition to mail, there may also be program flyers in your mailbox (with appropriate permission, stuffing mailboxes is an easy way to advertise an event).
- Decide who should pick up and check the mail. If mail is not picked up on a regular basis, the president of the organization and/or the advisor will be notified. If the situation continues, mailbox privileges may be revoked.

Branding – Standards, Logos, and More

The Pitt State brand is the foundation for all of our marketing resources. Every aspect, from a website, to identity, to print material, to video production and photography is defined by our Pitt State brand. It is imperative that proper logos be used in all instances in order to maintain high quality standards through Pitt State’s Marketing & Communication Office.

The Pitt State Brand Standards Manual is a guidebook for the regulations regarding the use of Pitt State logos and the university’s visual identity. The Brand Standards Manual addresses issues such as when and how the trademarked “split-face” logo can be used, colors and styles of approved fonts, and many other style and design questions.

Student Organization Policies

- Only licensed vendors will be able to produce merchandise using the Pittsburgh State University name and logos. See approved vendors list on the Brand Standards Manual.[LINK]
- All university club and student organization fundraising activities using the University’s name and/or logos on specialty merchandise must be approved and will be considered on a case-by-case basis. [BY WHO?!?!?]
- If you have specific questions, please contact [WHO?!?!?] email and phone number.

Pittsburg State University recognizes the transformational value of out-of-class activities in which our students participate. Whether initiated or sponsored by faculty or other University representatives, these activities add value to our various programs, whether academic, cultural, professional, or athletic.

The PSU Faculty Senate supports our students' desire to engage in these activities; we recognize our responsibilities in facilitating this engagement; and, we seek to provide guidance for instructors, sponsors and students as we cooperate to enhance our mutual learning experience. While ideally none of these University-sponsored-or-sanctioned-activities (USSA) would interfere with classroom attendance and participation, it is inevitable that at times conflicts will occur. With the goal of ameliorating such conflicts, we share the following knowledge and suggestions by way of making policy that protects our individual constituencies.

For Students

You have the right to expect to be reasonably accommodated by faculty if you meet your responsibilities in regards to this policy and if you meet your responsibilities for class attendance and participation when not absent for USSA.

You have the responsibility to inform faculty of your intention to participate in USSA. This should be delivered in writing with a sponsor's signature, title and contact information. Students should provide specific details of their intended absence. You should do so at the beginning of the semester or as soon as you are made aware of the scheduled absence. You should inform all of the instructors whose classes you will miss. You will provide information regarding the specific details of your intended absence. This should be done as soon as you are aware of the intended absence, with a minimum of 48 hours advance notice of the affected class meetings. If not possible (e.g. last minute changes to schedules out of the student's control), then you should notify your course instructor as soon as possible.

For Sponsors

You have the right to advocate for fair accommodation for your USSA participants in cooperation from faculty and students. You have the responsibility to inform faculty and students of your USSA schedule and how it may affect class schedules as early as possible in the semester.

For Faculty/Instructors

You have the right to expect that students will express their intention to participate in a USSA. This should be delivered by the student in writing with a sponsor's signature, title and contact information. Students should do so at the beginning of the semester, or as soon as they are aware of their intended absence, with a minimum of 48 hours advance notice of the affected class meeting. If this is not possible for reasons beyond their control, then students should notify you as soon as possible. Students should provide specific details documenting and verifying student participation in a USSA.

You have the responsibility to reasonably accommodate students who participate in USSA. Ideally, such accommodation would be offered and would be accepted in advance of a class absence. Such accommodation could include the opportunity to complete each assignment/test missed with an assignment/test of equal value and equal course content; or, exempting the student from the assignment if it is in the best interest of both parties involved.

Instructors shall provide reasonable and timely accommodations or opportunity to complete exams or other course requirements that have an impact on the course grade. Alternative solutions shall be provided for the following:

1. Travel considered part of the instructional program of the university and requiring absence from class (e.g. professional conferences, research presentations, field trips, etc.)
2. Invited participation in activities directly and officially sponsored by and in the interest of the university (e.g. athletic teams, music competitions, ENACTUS, SGA, etc.)

Violations

Neither absence nor verified notification of absence relieves the student of the responsibility for meeting all course requirements.

If a student believes a violation of the policy has occurred, the student is to contact the SGA Academic Affairs Director, either by e-mail at sga_aa@pittstate.edu, by phone at 620.235.4810, or stop by the SGA Office, located at the Crossroads Intersection in Overman Student Center in Room 111 with the big SGA frosted onto the glass. The student is to provide his or her name, contact information, the class (including day, time and instructor's name), a copy of the course syllabus and a description of the possible violation. The SGA Academic Affairs Director will notify the Chair of the Student-Faculty Committee, obtain information, and if discussion with the faculty member and student does not resolve the issue, then a meeting of the Student-Faculty Committee will be scheduled as soon as possible. The process will be the same as occurs with a reported violation of the Dead Week policy.

If a faculty member believes a violation of the policy has occurred then the faculty member should contact the Chair of the Student-Faculty Committee and provide his or her name, contact information, the class, the student's name, activity, and description of the possible violation. The Chair of the Student-Faculty Committee will notify the SGA Academic Affairs Director and obtain information. If discussion with the faculty member and student does not resolve the issue, a meeting of the Student-Faculty Committee will be scheduled as soon as possible. The process will be the same as occurs with a reported violation of the Dead Week policy.

Approved: Faculty Senate April 23, 2018

Under the U.S. Copyright Act, Public Law 94-553, Title 17 of the United States Code, Section 106 “the copyright owner has the exclusive right to display the copyrighted work publicly.”

The Federal Copyright Act specifies that copyrighted materials like movies can be used publicly if properly licensed. However, neither the rental nor purchase of a movie carries the right to exhibit it outside of one’s home. This law applies to everyone, regardless of:

- Whether admission is charged.
- Whether the institution is commercial or nonprofit.
- Whether a federal, state or local agency is involved.
- What year the movie was produced.

APPENDIX A: ADVISOR HANDBOOK

What is an advisor?

A student organization advisor is a faculty or staff member who provides support and guidance to officers and members of a student organization. The advisor not only serves as a representative of the group in an official capacity, but also serves as a student advocate. An advisor is one who gives ideas, shares insight, provides a different perspective, and encourages organization members.

Why be an advisor?

Advising a student organization can be a very rewarding experience. Working with students outside of the classroom allows faculty and staff members the ability to share information and resources, and encourage development in the student. This close interaction with students allows advisors the opportunity to promote skills such as leadership development, ethics, teamwork, appreciation of diversity, and self-discovery that are invaluable to students when they leave Pittsburg State University.

Who can be an advisor?

Any member of the faculty or staff at Pittsburg State University may be invited to serve as a student organization advisor. Graduate students may serve as co-advisors, but may not serve as primary advisors. Undergraduate students may not advise student organizations in any capacity.

What are the responsibilities of an advisor?

Advisor roles may differ depending on the student organization, but the role is always important. Some advisors play very active roles – attending meetings, working with student officers, and assisting in program planning and development – while others maintain a more distant relationship with the organization. It is our hope that as an advisor you will maintain regular contact with the organization, specifically the organization leaders.

One specific requirement of student organization advisors falls within the purview of The Student Right to Know and Campus Security Act of 1990, or more widely known as the Clery Act. This piece of federal legislation requires Pittsburg State University to report “statistics concerning the occurrences of certain criminal offenses reported to the local police agency or any official of the institution who is defined as a Campus Security Authority”. Student organization advisors are considered to be a Campus Security Authority because they have “significant responsibility for student and campus activities”.

What does this mean for advisors?

This means that advisors have the authority and the duty to take action or respond to particular issues on behalf of the institution, should they know of a crime that has taken place. All organization advisors are required to complete the Campus Security Authority training available through Canvas. If you have questions about the Clery Act or the responsibilities of the Campus Security Authority persons, please contact the Assistant Vice President for Student Life.

If the organization you advise plans to accept payments (ie: donations, fundraising money, registration, dues, etc...) that will go through the organization's on campus bank account, please contact LaDonna Flynn, Director of Internal Audit, at lflynn@pittstate.edu or (620)235-6167.

In order to assist the advisor and the organization in understanding the roles of an effective advisor, we suggest the following responsibilities for advisors and organizations:

Advisor Responsibilities to the Organization

- Serve at the discretion of the organization – know the boundaries.
- Assist officers in understanding their duties, administering programs and plan when needed, organizing projects, and making appropriate transitions.
- Preserve the continuity of the organization through the constitution, traditions, files, and minutes.
- Encourage the use of parliamentary procedures to ensure that meetings are run in an orderly fashion.
- Encourage students to understand and apply democratic principles, including the recognition of minority opinions and rights.
- Attend as many organizational meetings and events as possible.
- Support the officers and offer your evaluations of their ideas, as needed.
- Facilitate discussions among officers, and between the officers and general members of the organization.
- Be familiar with the national structure/affiliation, if relevant.
- Assist the organization as necessary.

Organization Responsibilities to their Advisor

- Notify the advisor of all meetings and events.
- Confer with the advisor on plans, projects, and events.
- Consult with the advisor before making structure or policy changes.
- Understand that although the advisor has no voting rights in the organization, they should be allowed to have speaking privileges.
- Remember that the responsibility for the success or failure of the organization, its events and projects rests ultimately with the organization and not the advisor.
- Acknowledge the advisor's time and energy donated, and express your appreciation appropriately.
- State clearly and openly the expectations of the advisor in writing (this eliminates communication breakdown).
- Evaluate the advisor and periodically provide constructive feedback.
- Declare the advisor's length of service to the organization (one semester, one academic year, etc...)
- Respect the advisor for his/her insights, talents, and willingness to serve in this role.

Advising Tips

Every student organization will differ, and may require a different approach by the advisor. These advising tips can serve as a starting point:

- In the beginning of the advising relationship, agree on clear expectations about the role of the advisor and the role of the student organization.
- Read the constitution/bylaws of the group, get to know the members, attend events, and generally make yourself seen so that they can become familiar with you and begin to build relationships.
- Become familiar with the policies for RSOs. This will help you to advise the group according to the Student Organization Handbook, and will also provide you with opportunities to enhance the organization's on-campus experience.
- Assist in the establishment of responsibilities for each officer and member.
- Develop a strong relationship with the president/chairperson and other officers – this is key because these students will be your main contact with the group.
- Remember to praise in public and criticize in private. Discuss concerns with an officer's performance in a one-on-one setting, and whenever someone does something outstanding, don't be shy to let them and others know.
- Maintain a sense of humor – its college, not rocket science!
- Be honest and open with all communication – the students need to feel that you are genuine in your interactions.
- Realize that you have the power of persuasion, but use this thoughtfully – sometimes the students need to learn how to fail.
- Help them see alternatives and provide an outside perspective.
- Find a balance – the students must feel that you are supportive of them, and that you will also hold them accountable.
- Remember to take care of yourself – it is okay to say no sometimes. Be aware of your limits and balance your professional commitments, personal life, and other responsibilities with your advisory role.

Advisor Expectations Checklist

Listed below are some expectations which can be negotiated between student leaders and their organization advisor. This form is designed to help advisors and officers arrive at a clear and mutually agreed upon advisor role. APPENDIX C: ORGANIZATION RESOURCES

Basic Organizational Recommendations

- Meet on a regular basis in the same location.
- If possible, plan a retreat for the executive board or the entire group. The success of this event will determine the course of the organization for the next year.
- Set goals with the group and review them on a regular basis.
- Delegate duties and responsibilities to other officers and members. Sometimes adopting a job description for each executive board position is a good way to establish duties for each officer, provides each officer with a set of expectations, and provides general guidance.
- Plan activities with other groups, whether it's a joint meeting or a social event.
- Do not plan regular meetings, executive meetings, or activities during Finals Week. If possible, allow your member the week before finals to finish papers and study in preparation for finals.
- Review the organization's constitution and bylaws regularly to keep them up-to-date. If you need assistance with this process, the Program Coordinator for Campus Activities can assist you. Remember, a student organization's constitution is a set of rules to work by and with, so it is important to be flexible when making changes.
- If you need assistance or guidance in goal setting, leadership development, meeting protocol, or other issues related to your organization, the Program Coordinator for Campus Activities can point you in the right direction.

Constitution & Bylaws [link to sample]

All RSOs at Pittsburg State University are required to have the most recent Constitution & Bylaws for the organization on file at the Campus Activities Center (Overman Student Center). Constitutions will be reviewed periodically, and should be updated on a regular basis. If assistance is needed in this process, please contact Campus Activities at (620)235-4795 or stop by the office.

Constitution – A constitution is the document that contains general statements about the organization. A constitution provides for consistency within an organization, clarifies expectations for its members, and contains the basic structure and procedures that the organization will follow.

Bylaws – Bylaws are an addition to the Constitution and contain specific rules and policies that are not included in the constitution. The vote needed to change the bylaws of an organization is usually lower than the vote needed to change an organization's constitution.

Constitutions

Constitutions should include the basic structure of the organization. Here is an example outline for a constitution:

Article I.....Organization Name

Article II.....Purpose

Article III.....Membership Requirements

Article IV.....Officers and Elections (removal of officers may be included here)

Bylaws

Bylaws should include the details of the organization, procedures, and policies. Here are some suggestions of things to include in bylaws:

- Membership – requirements, selection, rights, duties
- Dues – amount, collection, payment procedures
- Officer Duties – job descriptions, authority, eligibility, requirements, removal from office
- Executive Board – structure, composition, authority
- Committees – standing and/or special committees, chairperson election and duties
- Parliamentary Authority – provisions for rules of order
- Amendments – methods for amending, including the vote needed to pass a proposed amendment
- Other rules and/or policies as the organization sees fit

Parliamentary Procedure

Parliamentary Procedure is an effective way for a meeting to proceed. The most commonly used procedures are in Robert’s Rules of Order; you can find more here [LINK].

Basic Principles

- Members may only speak when recognized. No one may interrupt a speaker who has been recognized.
- Motions made are entitled to full and free debate.
- Every member has rights equal to every other member.
- The will of the majority must be carried out and the rights of the minority should be respected.

Motions

A motion is a proposal for the group to consider. Once a motion is made and seconded, the motion is debated and the group makes a decision whether to adopt or reject the motion. Here is an example of how making a motion works:

- A member raises his/her hand to be recognized by the chair
- Once recognized, the member proposes the motion by stating “I move that...”
- Another member must second the motion o If the motion is seconded, the chair re-states the motion to the group
- The motion is then debated. Only one person at a time may speak on the merits of the motion and all discussion must be limited to the subject of the motion. Discussion must end when the motion is called to a vote.
- The chair calls for the vote, either by voice, by a show of hands, or by ballot.
- Members can vote in three ways
 1. In favor of the motion
 2. Opposed to the motion
 3. Abstention – meaning that the member’s vote is neutral
- Motions may be amended at any time before the motion is called to a vote, or after the motion has been approved. An amendment changes the motion in some way, and must be proposed and approved of in the same manner as the main motion.

Note – Parliamentary Procedures need to be understood by all members of the organization. If Parliamentary Procedures are used, the group should have a Parliamentarian who is well versed in the procedures.
